

ABSTRACT

In a method and apparatus for identifying features of multidimensional image data in hypermedia systems a 5 multidimensional image, secondary image map and object index associate a program action with each object defined in an image.